PARENT ACTIVITIES

Literacy Games and Activities

Every time you read or tell stories to your baby or young child, you are helping their young brains to develop and grow strong. And it's never too early to start – do it from the moment they're born!

Follow this link for a Book List!

Follow this link to learn about The Importance of Reading.

Here you'll find Everyday Opportunities to incorporate reading with your child every day and from anywhere.

Alphabet pillow jumping:

If your kiddos need to burn off some energy, this letter activity from Toddler Approved will be perfect. Use a stack of paper plates, and write one giant letter on each one. Then use packing tape to secure each plate to a pillow and spread them around the room. Have the kids start on one side of the room and try to jump to the other without touching the floor. As they jump to each new pillow, have them say the letter or letter sound.

Connect-the-dots with letters:

Hands on as We Grow came up with a letter familiarity activity that will get your little ones moving and their creative juices flowing. Good, old connect-the-dots gets revamped when you write a handful of repeating letters in random patterns down a length of butcher's paper. Kids can connect the letters in any way they like so long as all of the G's are connected to the other G's and so on.

Letters of the Alphabet

Color these alphabet pages as you learn.

Trace the Alphabet!

Practice tracing the letters of the alphabet with these free downloadable worksheets.
